

Overview of the Cybersecurity Program:

The Bachelor's program in Cybersecurity was established in the 2020 academic year as part of the Computer Science Department. It aims to prepare specialized graduates who possess the knowledge and skills required to protect systems, networks, and data from cyber threats. The program features a flexible, multi-track framework that keeps pace with rapid developments in the field and prepares graduates for employment at the local, regional, and international levels.