The focus of this course is a series of technology labs. These labs are revised from the lab manual that accompany Edibon have been produced. Having introduced the students to the concepts of electricity and energy transfer, it is good to reinforce the concepts through the use of these lab activities. The descriptions and images in the lab manual are helpful and could be used as background information (especially for the teacher) for these revised labs. Labs one through seven contained herein are designed.
